State Revenue Personnel to Assist Taxpayers At Participating Kroger Stores on April 17

ATLANTA – Georgia Department of Revenue personnel will be available at 14 Kroger locations in the metro Atlanta area on Monday, April 17 to assist last-minute filers with their state personal income tax return.

“Georgia Department of Revenue personnel will be at the participating Kroger stores to accept state returns and payments and assist taxpayers with any other state tax related issue,” said Revenue Commissioner Bart L. Graham.

Representatives from the Georgia Department of Revenue and the Internal Revenue Service will be present at all stores between 6 p.m. and midnight to accept taxpayers’ returns and answer tax-filing-related questions.

“This service allows taxpayers to avoid the long lines at the post office, save on postage and ensure their returns are received on time,” said Commissioner Graham.

This year, taxpayers have until April 17 to file and pay, because the normal filing deadline day of April 15 falls on Saturday.

This is the eighth year that DOR and IRS personnel have provided this service at selected Kroger locations.
